

ABSTRACT

An input digital signal D10 is class-classified according to the envelope of the input digital signal D10, and the input digital signal D10 is converted by the prediction method corresponding to the class, so that conversion further suited to the feature of the input digital signal can be performed.